Over 40 years ago, Mark and Peg Reynolds started a small business selling plant material out of a truck and providing basic landscaping services to homeowners in the local community. Since that time and from those humble beginnings, Reynolds has evolved into a multi-functional design-build company creating elaborate outdoor living environments with kitchens and showers, pergolas and firepits, hardscaping and decking and much more for a discerning clientele across LBI. Additional divisions include low-voltage outdoor lighting, audio/visual and, most recently, an expansion into home building and interior renovation with the establishment of Mark Reynolds Project Management in 2016.

Known for innovative design, attention to detail, impeccable customer service and employing a cadre of carpenters, electricians, plumbers and trade professionals of the highest quality, Reynolds is the premier provider of outdoor living services on LBI. Often overshadowed in the accolades showered upon them, yet representing the cornerstone of their success and distinction, Reynolds Landscaping is the first and most familiar division of the Reynolds family of services.

When strolling the streets of LBI, the landscapes created by Reynolds Landscaping are easily recognizable by their impeccable design—planted lush and dense to create a burst of color, texture and variety throughout the summer season and beyond. Attention to detail is spent matching the perfect combination of flowering plant material to both complement and contrast with evergreen trees and shrubs that provide structure and continued interest well into the winter months.

The foundation of all Reynolds' landscapes start with healthy plants purchased from only the most select growers along the east coast, leading to vigorous and glossy plant material known for their durability and longevity. Garden soils are constantly tested to ensure the proper combination of nutrients are present. This arsenal of soils and plants create the perfect starting point from which to anchor a Reynolds landscape.

2-dimensional landscape designs and 3-dimensional digital renderings, created by the design team at Reynolds Landscaping, are additional services available to provide homeowners with a visual reference and master plan of the conceptual landscape on their property. A master plan also assists homeowners to easily select design components to install in phases, based upon budget parameters.

While a design plan creates a map for garden locations on the property, the actual layout of plant material in a Reynolds installation takes place on site allowing the landscape professionals to work as artists, painting a living canvas through colorful and textured plant material. This process is fluid and creative and is one of the distinguishing factors that sets the Reynolds design process apart from others in the trade.

The central planting palette of a Reynolds landscape—long-blooming hydrangea and rose bushes, summer-flowering crape myrtle trees, screening privets and evergreen boxwoods, holly and cypress to name a few—have remained constant through the years due to their reliable performance and longevity.

To supplement these hardy plant performers, homeowners are always invited to peruse the Reynolds Garden Center, undoubtedly the premier supplier of plant material in the area, to review and select perennial flowering plants of their preference. These supplemental plants enable Reynolds Landscaping to design a personalized landscape—unique for each client.

Unparalleled experience, innovative design and vigorous, healthy plant material combined with an enthusiastic commitment to customer service are the cornerstones of success for Reynolds Landscaping. They are the principles upon which the company was established and the formula which makes Reynolds Landscaping the premier landscaping company on LBI.
